G. M. HARMAN, Editor at a Publ she

LEXINGTON, S. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1898.

NOT INCONSISTENT

Since I have been connected with the Dispatch, and I presume before, its policy, under the direction and control of its Editor, Mr. G. M Harman, has been broad and liberal. It has been "unawed by influence and unbribed by gain." It has been the aim and purpose of the Edi tor to make the Dispatch a vehicle for the interchange of thoughts and opinions of the people on ques tions of public interest. How well he has succeeded is clearly shown by the large list of subscribers. Holding decided convictions on political issues, but at the sametime the col umns of the Dispatch have never been denied any one to attack any editorial utterance.

So much by way of a preface to reply to a cruel and cowardly attack made on the Editor of this paper by the Carolina News of last week. Since the establishment of that paper at Chapin the Dispatch has always cherished for it the most friendly feeling. It never has nor does it now consider it in any sense a rival. As far as my knowledge goes the Dispatch has never lost a cent by the establishment of the News; therefore it cannot be truthfully said that this article is inspired by business jealousy.

Being the author of the editorial over the caption of "Fair Play," which the News attempted to criticise I feel it incumbent upon me to reply above my own signature for two reasons, the first being to assume the responsibility and the second, by fixing the responsibility, to show how unwarranted, unjustified and brutal the attack was.

I have been assailed from three different positions. The first being inconsistency; the second partiality, and the third obligation, and then the News calls upon me to "specify" and proceeds to uncork the vials of its wrath and pour its vile stuff on his head for appointing State constables.

I was in no sense inconsistent in anything I uttered in that editorial. Because a person says something kind and pleasant of a candidate who is being Lounded down by a set of hungry office seekers with "silly and nonsensical charges that would be unworthy the conception of even the "most illiterate corn field nigger," it does not necessarily follow that that person takes sides one way or the other. Only the weak and narrow minded puts such a construction on such an action. I was bollering up no man's persimmon tree, I was only trying to give justice to whom justice was due without saying an unkind word against the other candidates except that they were making unsupported and silly charges and that this campaign of abuse should

The News man most assuredly must have been out of his mind when he asked who were making the charges, and against whom? He could have seen from the published reports of the campaign meetings, the correctness of these reports have never been disputed to this day, that Watson attacked Governor Ellerbe from nearly every stump, charging him with using the prerogatives of his high office in the matter of appointments to strengthen his political fences; that Col. Tillman attacked the Board of Phosphate Commissioners through Governor Ellerbe, of which he is a member ex officio, charging that a great deal more money had been collected in royalty than had been accounted for; that Archer was forced to acknowledge that he killed Epton in the Senate because Governor Ellerbe appointed him Comptroller General and Spartanburg county could not have two candidates for State offices. And so with the other candidates. The combination, if there is one, has been jumping on the Governor all along until a desire to see fair play has been awakened in the hearts of the people and the fair and broad papers have become aroused, entered protests and joined in a grand chorus of condemnation. On the outside of this issue is published a strong article from the pen of Col. T. B. Crews, of the Laurensville Herald calling for fair play. It certainly cannot out as originally intended it would be charged that Mr. Crews is under | be a great agent in correcting the obligations to the Governor as the evils of intemperance, and to this Editor of this paper is said to be. end we should all join in a united If the News man had consulted the effort to strengthen the law by makoutside of his own paper as often as | ing the needed amendments, and in the glass and sachel he would have the meantime see that the present law been saved the humiliation of show- is properly enforced both by the dising his ignorance concerning the pensers and the ex liquor sellers, State campaign.

No, I do not consider Governor large measure for the prowling of Ellerbe a man, but a gentleman of the blind tiger and the rowdyism pure and unsullied character, of and drunkenness which follow in his spotless and unimpeachable integrity; a Christian gentleman of high standing; an honest and upright gentleman against whom and whose public and private life his political enemies could find no dark spot. I was not partial, because I said try it. At druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

nothing against the other candidates which could be construed as harmful except that mentioned above. I am under no obligation to Governor Ellerbe: I have asked him for nothing and he has done nothing for me ex cept to make a Governor in whose record I am proud. The Editor of this paper is not responsible for that editorial. It was conceived and put in type by me, as assistant editor, without his knowledge and he never saw it until the Wednesday of its appearance in print; therefore, he could not have possibly "sung Ellerbe's praises" for having "done him" [the Editor] "a personal favor," and he who says otherwise willfully utters what he knows to be maliciously false. It is brutally cowardly to be continously referring to an unforturnate affair in which the public now has no concern and none but a person with low and mean principles would be caught doing such dirty work.

The only grievance that the News man can find with the administration of Governor Ellerbe, is the appointment of State Constables, and I take it from an article which recently appeared in the News that the constables have trod very near somebody's toes near Chapin. It is the wounded bird that flutters-the kicked dog that whines, and if the constables had turned the searchlight on a little stronger another per son beside that poor negro, for whose misfortune Editor Beard seems to take such a great interest, would have been caught in the mashes of the diag net.

I have given the News quite enough free advertising, which, judging from the misstatements the News has time and again made against the Dispatch concerning the county printing and other matters, it has been working for for sometime, I have no more space to give it.

THE DISPENSARY. Elsewhere in this issue Mr. W

M. Wilson gives his views on the whisky question which is now and has been from time immemorial agitating the public mind. The solution of this problem has engaged the attention | representative of this policy and that of our wisest statesmen and profoundest philanthropists and numerous systems have been tried for the curtailment of its use, the restriction of its sale and the correction of the evils which flow from the immoderate use of alcoholic liquors with unsatisfactory results. All men in all times have recognized the use of whisky a colossal evil against the health, morals and peace of the community in which it is sold and was, therefore, a proper subject for police regulation and in the exercise of her police powers the States by their organic laws are given the power to regulate or prohibit its sale as seems most conducive to the health, morals and peace of the peo ple, and in the consideration of this question this fact should be kept in

The tavern and open bar systems have been tried and the abuses committed under them by the men who sold liquor are too fresh in the public mind to need repeating here. Under the Tillman administration we had a foretaste of prohibition. Li quor was sold everywhere, by whomsoever would, with impunity and no attempt was made by prohibitionists to enforce the prohibition law then prevailing. Drunkenness was prevalent and the people were almost demoralized. We oppose the high li cense system because we believe that it means a return to the open bars in another form but with increased evils, and, because it creates a monopoly that will prove a disturbing element in politics. The dispensary system is the only tangible and practical solution of the question. Imperfect as it now is it has reduced drunkenness to a perceptible degree, the reason for this belief need not be stated at this time. True the law needs many alterations and amendments. We know not as to the correctness of the assertion that wornout preachers and ex-saloon keepers are locked arms in the fight against the dispensary but it is a strange coincident that we find preachers advocating the Child's plan, which proposes to es tablish bar rooms in every incorpo rated town under the name of drug stores, and ex saloon keepers, many of whom have violated the dispensary law, are also fighting the dispensary. If the law was carried many of whom are responsible in a

THE ROAD TO OFFICE.

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE.

unusual circum tances does the Dispatch take sides for or against any candidate who seeks election in a primary election. From the trend of public events and the low plane upon which the State campaign has been pitched, the Dispatch believes that the time has arrived when every good and true man should use his influence in elevating and purifying the political conditions in our State.

Any fair minded man whose judgment is unwarpped by prejudice and who has kept up with the progress of the campaign, as published in the daily papers, must admit that the present canvass, instead of being a campaign of education, has degenerated into one of slander and abuse.

While the manner in which many of the candidates are conducting their campaign may appeal to the vicious and ignorant, yet the great mass of voters repudiate the bitterness and narshness with which it is being con ducted and consider it an insult to their intelligence. Gov. Ellerbe, seems to be the one upon whom his competitors have trained their guns and it is admitted that he has given the State a clean and clear administration, one that any South Carolinian can justly be proud of and even his enimies, can find no fault with him except in his appointments. This being true is there any tangible reason why he should be retired to the shades of private life, simply to make room for another who gives no assurance that Governor Ellerbe comes nearer representing our views on political questions than any of the other candidates. He represents the peace and unity element and believes that the time is ripe when factional strife should cease; that the weal of the State demands that our people get together again and with a united effort, bend their energies to the upbuilding of her varied industries, and the common interest of the people was such that it could be better sub served by a cessation of bitterness and strife. Being among those who believe thus, the Dispatch will hereafter use its influence to elect the representative before the people to-
